

Pianist May Ling Kwok will play Brahms, Beethoven and Chopin at a Friday Music at Noon recital February 8. The concert is included in the Faculty of Fine Arts Winter Festival.

ARTS IN SEASON

The Faculty of Fine Arts might well be justified in designating any two week period during the academic year as a Festival; such is the quality and variety of events occurring regularly within the department.

Partly to prove just this, Fine Arts Dean Peter Smith, has announced the selection of January 30 to February 9 as the Faculty's Winter Festival.

Most of the events are regularly scheduled occurrences, planned earlier by the departments of music, theatre, visual arts, and history in art and publicized separately.

But their combination into one programme produces an impressive menu of cultural fare.

The festival begins officially with one of the three annual evening performances by the University of Victoria Orchestra under conductor George Corwin. Bassoon soloist, Paul Nasmith, a graduate student and regular member of the Victoria Symphony, will perform a Vivaldi bassoon concerto. Other works to be featured will be by Dvorak, J.S. Bach, and Holst.

The art exhibitions will mark the opening of the festival and will continue throughout the 10 day event.

Opening January 31 will be an exhibition by Visual Arts faculty, described by Dean Smith as "a sort of seven man show" and featuring the work of seven artists in the Visual Arts Department. Location of the exhibition is the McPherson Library Gallery.

The following day will see the opening of an exhibition by the Visual Arts students in the MacLaurin Fine Arts stairwell. The stairwell, Dean Smith pointed out, is an almost continual showcase for university artwork throughout the year.

Another year round event to be given special recognition through the Festival is the Friday Music at Noon, which features an assortment of student and faculty performances and compositions.

Two Friday concerts will be held during the festival, both student recitals. February 1 will feature oboeist, Sandra Pumfrey and Glen Fast, flute. The following Friday, pianist May Ling Kwok will play Brahms, Beethoven and Chopin.

A highlight of the Festival guaranteed to create interest in all sections of the Fine Arts Faculty is a one day conference on the Role of the Critic in the Fine Arts.

John Beckwith, Dean of Music at the University of Toronto and a native of Victoria, will speak on "A Pattern for Canadian Music Criticism" at 2:30 p.m., February 1 in MacLaurin 169. At 8 p.m. in the same room, Norman Nadel, cultural affairs writer for Scripps Howard Newspapers, New York, will explain "Often Wrong But Never in Doubt".

Student art enlivens the MacLaurin stairwell. A special exhibition will open February 1.

Both talks should stimulate lively discussion, Dean Smith predicted.

The Phoenix Theatre's contribution to the Festival is "Joan of Arc — A New Version in Movement and Mime", opening Saturday, February 2, at 8 p.m. and running nightly through the following week. Directors are Kaz Piesowocki and John Krich. An article on the production will be featured in the next edition of Around the Ring.

Also to be offered through the week of February 3 are three regular Music Department presentations.

At the "sundayafternoons" concert February 3 at 4 p.m. in MacLaurin 144, the UVic Chamber Ensemble will play works by Mario Davidovsky, Virgil Thomson and Edgar Varese. Focal point of the afternoon will be the performance of a new work by UVic composer Rudolf Komorous.

Mr. Komorous, who Dean Smith described as also being one of the two best bassoon players in Canada, composes primarily electronic music.

"Tuesdaymusic" February 5 will be a student recital with Doug Preston, clarinet; Gary Russell, 'cello; Jocelyn Abbott, piano; Lionel Martin, oboe; Wendy Carlton, clarinet and Ruth Hibberson, flute.

Baritone Bruce More, accompanied by Jim Furmston on the piano, will perform works by Schumann, Berg, Honegger and Hindemith at a faculty recital Wednesday, February 6 at 8 p.m. in MacLaurin 144.

Information on admission charges to the Phoenix Theatre event may be obtained at the Theatre Box Office, 477-4821. Admission will also be charged for the February 3 faculty recital; information on this is available through the Music Department. All other events are open to the public without charge.

JOBS FOR PH.D.'S

Employment difficulties for persons holding Ph.D. degrees have been exaggerated, a spokesman for the Ontario Council on Graduate Studies' Advisory Committee on Academic Planning said in Toronto last week.

Professor M.A. Preston, executive vice-chairman of the Council, based his statement on the results of a 10 year survey conducted by the Council. Information was compiled about the first employment of all those who obtained Ph.D.'s in Ontario from 1964 to 1973. The final two years of the survey included all of Canada.

At most universities the information was collected at the time the student handed in his thesis to the graduate school.

At that time, Professor Preston said, 96 per cent of the Ph.D.'s had jobs. "Of the remaining four per cent, some will have since obtained employment, some were not actively seeking work and some are no doubt unemployed."

Professor Preston noted that although the number of Ph.D.'s rose from 1,314 in 1970-71 to 1,739 in 1972-73 the percentage of unemployed among them has not increased. And he pointed out that the four per cent unemployment rate for new Ph.D.'s is much higher than the percentage of all Ph.D.'s out of work. It is also lower than the jobless rate of persons with bachelors degrees.

World-renowned concert saxophonist Paul Brodie of Toronto, conducted a public lecture-recital in MacLaurin 144 January 15. Among the pieces performed by Mr. Brodie, who was in Victoria to appear with the Victoria symphony Orchestra, was Dingy Yellow, commissioned by Mr. Brodie two years ago from UVic composer Rudolph Komorous. Attending Mr. Brodie's afternoon recital were a number of high school saxophone students and musicians from the local Canadian Forces Band.

Professor Preston concluded it would be unwise to reduce new graduate school enrolment on the basis of "the present rather poor business climate" since those now entering Ph.D. studies will not emerge for five years.

"Surely we are not to plan ahead on the assumption of continued business recession," he said.

"On the other hand, our planning should take account of the reduced opportunities for university teaching jobs, which will continue since university enrolments will not alter markedly for 15 years or so."

Professor Preston also looked at the areas in which Ph.D.'s are employed.

He noted a growing trend away from university teaching and industrial employment to private research institutes and government.

Professor Preston also pointed out the tendency of Ph.D.'s to remain in Canada for post-doctoral work. Although the fraction of new Ph.D.'s obtaining post-doctoral research fellowships has remained static at one quarter, in the 1960's two thirds of these fellowships were held outside Canada where this year nearly 70 per cent are in this country.

IN THE MARKET

UVic Purchasing Manager Ralph Paul considers the entire continent his shopping centre.

Membership of the university in the National Association of Educational Buyers, Northwest Regional Group, enables Mr. Paul to keep informed of the latest products — and bargains — in the educational marketplace.

For UVic — since joining the organization two years ago as its first and, until recently, only Canadian member — this has produced some substantial savings.

"I couldn't say exactly how much money our membership has actually saved us," Mr. Paul said. "But some ideas have led to our modifying procedures, and adopting some new procedures and techniques of buying that will lead, and have lead, to savings. The savings come through reductions in man hours, obtaining better material or substituting material.

"Members benefit through the breadth of experience available to them. It's a mutual exchange of ideas and experience.

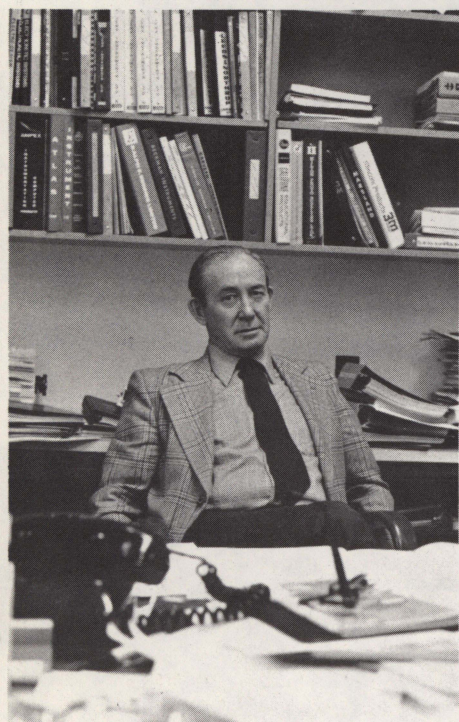

"The NAEB mailings are of considerable interest to all college and university level institutions. The monthly bulletins are particularly suited to our problems and solutions in all areas of purchasing and procuring."

Through the NAEB, Mr. Paul is informed of availability and shortages of materials. The organization's 2,800 members inform each other of their buying and selling needs and discuss experiences with various products.

Communication is further encouraged by annual conferences both at the regional and national levels.

Discussions at the regional conferences are most relevant to UVic, said Mr. Paul, who attended a two day regional conference last fall in Moscow, Idaho with purchasing buyer George Smith.

At the conference Mr. Paul was appointed to a membership committee with the purpose of broadening the representation of institutions in the Association.

Specifically, Mr. Paul was to contact universities in B.C. and Alberta to interest them in the benefits of NAEB membership.

Response to date indicates the University of Alberta, Simon Fraser, and possibly U.B.C. and the University of Calgary are considering joining the colleges and universities of Idaho, Washington and Oregon in the NAEB Northwest Regional Group.

As Purchasing Manager, Ralph Paul is responsible for obtaining almost all goods and services needed by the UVic community.

Assisted by three buyers, a clerical staff of four and an Administration Stores staff of three, he supplies existing buildings, and purchases food, athletic equipment, uniforms, scientific equipment, stationery and furniture. In many aspects of these operations UVic's NAEB membership has proven valuable.

But one of Mr. Paul's most prized acquisitions through the organization was better even than the average bargain — it didn't cost a cent. Souvenirs of the fall conference were plaques inscribed from the Moscow Elks Club. Mr. Paul is especially fond of his plaque because it fails to mention Moscow is in Idaho.

PHYSICIST TO SPEAK

Dr. Paul Marmet, a distinguished Canadian physicist from Laval University, will deliver a lecture to the faculty, graduate and undergraduate students Thursday, January 3 at 12:30 p.m. in the Elliott lecture theatre 167.

Dr. Marmet is a specialist in the field of atomic and molecular physics. The subject of his address will be "Ionization by Electron Impact on Atoms and Molecules".

CARRY ON COMMITTEE

Despite the dismissal of its chairman Jan Bremer, the Committee on University Governance is moving ahead with its original vigorous schedule.

Under Mr. Bremer's successor as chairman, UVic political science professor Walter Young, the committee held public hearings at Simon Fraser University January 15 and at U.B.C. January 22 and 23.

"There has been no fundamental change in the committee," Dr. Young said Monday. "However, instead of reporting through John Bremer, we now report directly to the Minister of Education.

The committee will hold further hearings on the three campuses in February when briefs from the university senates will be heard.

Individual members of the committee are also conferring with university representatives from Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and the Maritimes on reports already compiled in those provinces dealing with university governance.

"There is no shortage of material on the subject," Dr. Young said. "It would be possible to do a report on university governance without even leaving the library."

Nevertheless, the B.C. committee has been working on its own since September, first compiling the Working Paper which has become the basis for much of the discussion at the committee's public hearings.

"The Working Paper is not a report," Dr. Young emphasized. "It is simply a technique to get people thinking about the committee and reacting to its suggestions."

As such, he added, it is successful.

"What has impressed me is the support people have given to some of the ideas expressed in the working paper."

"For example," Dr. Young said, "there seems to be general support for maintaining the bicameral system, probably because the message from Toronto is that the unicameral system is not working there.

"There also seems to be the desire for the President to remain the chief executive of the university, for open budgets, open Board of Governors meetings and for an all-academic senate."
